TWELVE O'CLOCK: M.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

[FIRST SESSION.]

Closing Hours of the Session—Exciting Scene in the House.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, April 10, 1869.

The Senate was in session, most of the time with closed doors, until a quarter past four o'clock this morning.

After the Senate met at ten o'clock an effort was made to get another executive session, but it was easily defeated.

The business was all unimportant. Very few few persons were in the galleries, but they gradually filled as the hour of twelve o'clock drew near.

During the last hour a bill repealing a clause in some former appropriation bill, forbidding the Attorney General employing assistants, passed.

Most of the morning session was taken up in the discussion of the bill to give Southern Senators back pay.

At five minutes before 12 M. a little sensation was created by a message from the House announcing the passage of the Banks-Cuban resolution, after which Mr. Wilson took the floor and declared he felt it his high moral duty to occupy the remainder of the session without giving way for anybody or anything.

Mr. Trumbull reported that the Committee appointed to notify the President that both Houses were ready to adjourn, had performed their duty, and that the President had informed them that he had no further communication to make, whereupon Mr. Anthony declared the Senate of the United States adjourned without day.

But little disposition was manifested in the House to transact business, when that branch of Congress assembled this morning at ten o'clock, the members being thoroughly fatigued with the labor of the night session, which lasted until near daylight this morning. The members lounged in the cloak rooms or congregated in knots of half dozens throughout the hall and discussed anything but legislative business. Speaker Blaine with difficulty preserved sufficient order to enable the Clerk's voice to be heard. The galleries were only partially filled with spectators, who sat with listless indifference to the proceedings.

Gen. Banks succeeded in obtaining the floor, and reported his resolution to sustain the President if he recognized the Cubans as belligerents, but objection was made to it and Gen. Banks had to move a suspension of the rules. This was resisted, and three-quarters of an hour was then consumed in endeavoring to get a quorum, and finally this was obtained, after a call of the House had been refused. The rules were then suspended and the resolution passed. Yeas 98, nays 35.

Mr. Burdett, of the Election Committee, offered a resolution declaring Mr. Wallace, Republican, from South Carolina, entitled to the seat, and then demanded the previous question on its passage. This was resisted by the Democrats, who commenced to fillibuster by entering a motion to adjourn, upon which the yeas and nays were called, but of course the motion was defeated.

A message was here received from the Senate, announcing the passage of a bill making an appropriation for refurnishing the Executive Mansion.

Mr. Dawes asked to have this resolution passed unanimously, but a half dozen Democrats objected.

Mr. Burdett then moved a suspension of the rules, to pass his resolution, but this was again met by the Democrats with a motion to adjourn, and another roll call ensued, which occupied the time until half past eleven.

Mr. Paine, Chairman of the Election Committee, appealed to his colleague to let the case go over, as no opportunity had been given to debate, and in his opinion no case should be rushed through without full discussion. Mr. Burdett then consented, and the case went over.

For the next twenty minutes various unimportant bills were passed with great rapidity, although confusion existed throughout the hall.

At twelve o'clock Speaker Blaine arose and said that in accordance with a joint resolution the House was adjourned without a day.

CUBA.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HAVANA, April 9, via KEY WEST, April 10.—The Spanish man-of-war Fernando Catobica to-day overhauled the American brig Lizzie Major, ten miles from Carribean, and took from her two of her passengers. Both of the persons taken were provided with passports and had embarked at Havana.

A report is current from Cuban sources that the Spanish troops, while conveying a supply of provisions from Santa Cruz to Puerto Principe, were defeated.

Intelligence has been received here that the Spanish troops in the vicinity of Neuvitas are suffering from sickness.

On the arrival of the steamer Eagle, from New York, five Cubans, who had taken passage to Havana, were arrested and carried to Moro Castle.

HAVANA, April 10.—Last night there were further disturbances in the streets of Havana and several persons were killed. To-night the city is quiet.

The United States steamer Niepsic has arrived at Cienfuegos. It is reported the column under General Lescia, while acting as convoy from Santa Cruz to Puerto Principe, was routed by the forces under General Queseda and the convoy captured. The losses on both sides are immense.

HARRISBURG, April 10, 1869.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House did no business of any interest to Western Pennsylvania to-day.

A motion to consider the Senate joint resolution for final adjournment on Friday failed, and being referred to a Committee, cannot, even if reported on Monday, be considered before Tuesday, except by a two-thirds vote.

Adjourned till Monday afternoon.

The Senate was not in session.

NEW YORK CITY.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 10, 1869.

The steamship Alaska sailed for California to-day with a full list of passengers. Colonel Whymper, formerly connected with the Russo-American expedition, left for San Francisco.

The steamship Queen sailed for Europe to-day. On her departure from the dock, cheers were given for Junius H. Brown, who is a passenger, by a large gathering of editorial friends, including C. A. Dana, J. Russell Young, Col. King and a host of others.

The United States Commission appointed to investigate the East river bridge project, having about concluded their labors here, will this week leave for Niagara, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, to inspect bridges at those points.

A fire at No. 61 Stone street, this afternoon, destroyed a quantity of Cotton owned by Green Bros., W. F. Miller & Co., Bonner, Brown & Pinknedy and others to the amount of $15,000. The building was damaged to the extent of $4,000; fully insured.

The loss by the destruction of the malt house of Feidlinger, Schmidt & Co., Forty-seventh street, last night, was $200,000, on which the insurance is $130,000, including $5,000 in Merchants of Chicago.

Senator Grimes sails for Europe, per Samaria, next Wednesday.

The steamers City of Brooklyn and Nebraska, from Liverpool, arrived today.

The excitement in the gold market yesterday seems to have been occasioned by a "bull" clique to lock up gold, in opposition to the operations of prominent "bears," and the difficulty about the payment of certified checks by the banks of New York seems to have been, in fact, that holders presented them yesterday instead of waiting until the following business morning, which would have been Monday. The total amount of such checks from the Gold Bank on the Bank of New York was $1,200,000. A million was paid, when the bank refused to pay the rest for want of coin. A settlement was, however, arranged without the checks going to protest.

The Fifth United States Artillery, under command of Brevet Major General Arnold, arrived yesterday from New Orleans by sea.

Lathrop, Ludington & Co., were yesterday declared involuntary bankrupts by the United States Court.

Building 109 and 111 Worth street, owned by Solelias Fries, was damaged to the extent of $2,500 by fire last night, and the dry goods stock of C. H. Bowman & Co., occupants, was injured. The loss was $10,000; fully insured.

Gov. Marshall, of Minnesota, lectured last evening before the newly formed Excelsior Colony, which starts Tuesday for Nebraska to settle.

The population of New York is estimated at 1,117,767.

The Board of Health report members of three families in one row of houses in Sixteenth ward stricken with small pox, on Friday night. The Board had the whole population of the row vaccinated yesterday.

Gray, the Insane Murderer.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The St. Paul Press, of yesterday, states that Gray, the insane murderer of his wife and four children, has been removed from the cell where he was first confined and is now fastened to the floor in the main corridor of the jail. He lies upon a mattress, with his head supported upon pillows. One foot is chained securely to an iron staple in the floor. A very strong leather strap passes over his body and is fastened to the floor for the purpose of securing him during his paroxysms. Iron staples have been driven into the floor on each side of him at about the height of his arms, and one or the other wrist is fastened to one of these all the time by means of a handcuff and chain. Every hour or two the handcuff and hobble are changed to prevent weariness. During Wednesday night he rested pretty well until about three o'clock in the morning, and then for two hours he struggled terribly to free himself from restraint. After this paroxysm had passed away, he was comparatively quiet up to dark last night. Friday morning the Deputy Sheriff had a conversation with him, in which the prisoner spoke freely of the deed which he had committed. He stated, in substance, that he first struck his wife with the grub hoe, down near the bars; that she screamed terribly and fought him, but that he finally knocked her down with the axe and then stabbed her nine times, after which he carried her to the granary where the body was found. The screams of his wife aroused Maggie, his eldest child, and she ran out of the house. He said he had hard work to kill Maggie, she struggled so hard, but that he killed the others easily. The statements that the prisoner has made have all been drawn out of him by questioning, and they are incoherent and in some parts contradictory. He certainly at times knows something about what he has done and always persists in saying "I have killed them." But he has never yet given a detailed statement of the whole affair, and probably never will be able to do so.

Cuban Meeting in Philadelphia.

Much enthusiasm was manifested. A resolution was adopted asking the United States government to recognize the Cubans as beligerents before the British government does so.

CANADIAN ANNEXATION.

The project of Canadian annexation, in settlement of the Alabama claims, with the joint consent of England and the Colonists, begins to attract attention in governmental and diplomatic circles, and is by some regarded as likely to become a prominent feature of Gen. Grant's administration. The views expressed on this subject by part of the American press, the favorable response of English newspapers, and the demand for annexation among the Colonies, especially in Nova Scotia, have encouraged belief in the feasibility of the scheme, if managed with diplomatic tact and a careful regard to English honor. Objections to the possibility of its accomplishment, and doubts as to the policy and safety of such an enlargement of the Republic, are strongly urged by individuals, but it is confidently asserted by others that public opinion is gradually setting in favor of our acceptance of the Canadas, should they be tendered by Great Britain, as the surest mode of harmonizing the interests and ending the jealousies between the two countries, and affording a basis of permanent and cordial peace.

The imports into the United States from Canada and the British North American possessions on the Atlantic for the fiscal years 1867-68, compared with those of 1864-65, the last complete years of the Reciprocity Treaty, show the total value under the Reciprocity Treaty to have been, free of duty, $30,569,668, not under the Reciprocity Treaty, and dutiable, $5,167,349; for the last fiscal year, dutiable, $24,224,683, free, $4,372,452; amount of duty paid, $3,280,916.

BILLS NOT SIGNED.

The bill for the relief of Rollin White, being an extension of a patent, the joint resolution in relation to a site for new State Department, and joint resolution appointing Gen. Thomas Osborn, of Chicago, as manager of National Asylum for disabled soldiers, in place of Gen. Oglesby, resigned, were not signed by the President, being the last bills which passed the House, but which failed to reach the President before the hour of adjournment.

NOMINATIONS NOT CONFIRMED.

Fifty-three nominations of various offices not having been confirmed by the Senate, expired with the adjournment of that body, and new names must be sent in for the offices, or those sent in heretofore be nominated. Banquet to Charles Dickens at Liverpool—Pope's Jubilees Celebrated at Rome—Demonstration by the Carlists in Spain.

GREAT BRITAIN.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LIVERPOOL, April 10.—Midnight.—The banquet to Charles Dickens occurred at St. George's Hall this evening. About seven hundred gentlemen sat down, and there were besides many spectators. The hall was gracefully decorated with flags and banners. The proceedings were characterized throughout with good feeling and enthusiasm. Sir Henry Houghton and Hepworth Dixon presided. After the usual toasts, Lord Dufferin made a pleasant speech. He regretted that Dickens had not entered the field of politics. He would have been a power in the House of Commons and a fellow peer of Macauley. Lord Lytton, at length, in glowing terms, proposed the health of Dickens. Mr. Dickens arose, and with much emotion responded. He felt, he said, that he was unable to do justice to his feelings. Liverpool, after London, was always foremost in his estimation. She was always ready to respond, openhearted, spontaneously and munificently to all appeals to aid art and literature. Relative to remarks of Lord Dufferin, Dickens said after mature deliberation he had decided to stand and fall by literature and not enter politics. Thus far he had not regretted his decision. Anthony Trollope also responded to a sentiment. He eulogized Washington Irving, Mr. Motley and the American people. The latter were always willing to recognize publicly the honor due to literary men. He closed by hinting Charles Dickens as Minister to Washington would be beneficial to both countries.

FRANCE.

PARIS, April 10.—In the Senate to-day the defensive measures proposed by the Government were generally approved. Marshal Neil said it was the duty of the country in time of peace to secure its safety. The army might be placed on a peace footing, and if needed could rapidly pass to a war footing.

In the Corps Legislatiff M. De Lavellete made a long peaceful speech. He concluded with the following words: "It it is the policy of France to maintain resolutely a dignified peace."

—The funeral ceremonies of General Nichols took place Saturday noon at Christ Church, St. Louis, Rev. Dr. Schuyler officiating. After the services at the Church, the procession, consisting of an escort of two companies of the Engineer Corps and a long line of carriages, containing the family of the General and their friends, and a large number of military men and citizens, proceeded to the Iron Mountain Railroad Depot, whence the remains were conveyed to Jefferson Barracks, fourteen miles below the city, and will be interred in the National Cemetery of the place. The pall bearers were Generals A. J. Smith, H. F. Clarke, S. P. Graham, N. B. Brown, D. H. Rucker, F. D. Collender, J. V. D. Reeve and C. McDougal. Among the military men present were Lieut. Gen. Sheridan, Maj. Gen. Geo. Sykes, Gen. L. C. Hunt, Gen. Swift, Col. McCoy, Gen. Forsythe, Col. Thomas, Col. Morrill and all the others of the resident officers of St. Louis.

A WASHINGTON correspondent gives some pen-pictures of the Senate, in which he speaks of Wilson's facial "strange mixture of phlegm and impenetrable cunning," of Chandler's "tallowy face," of Fessenden's head—"the head of a man without any passions and without affections, a face like that of Liszt, the pianist," of Morrill, of Vermont, "who looks more Sumner every year," of Carl Schurz, who "sprawls about in a leisurely way, as if he had been in the Senate for the last thirty years," and of Buckingham, with his "gentlemanly atmosphere, neither chewing tobacco, nor spitting, nor putting his legs into his neighbor's chair when his neighbor is out of it, nor slouching around with his hands in his pockets." Then "there is Hamlin's tall, queer figure come back again, and looking very natural. His coat-tails seem more antiquated than ever, but his face is just as good and simple and guileless as it used to be; but there is a kind of feebleness expressed all over him, which shows that he is getting old. There is Nye, who always makes me think of a fat and well-to-do old spider, and now, when he bends over to speak to Fowler, that golden-haired, young-looking man, whose dress betokens an open revolt against the stereotyped, senatorial costume of black, which has become to American Senators what the toga was to their Roman namesakes, he looks more spiderish than ever, just as if he were going to clutch at Fowler, who stands in the place of an unfortunate fly. McCreery, of Kentucky, reminds you of a great black beetle. If you ever see him you will agree with me, especially if you see him from behind. McDonald, of Arkansas, looks less like a Senator than any man in the room. Senator Morton, of Indiana, is standing up, talking about finances. His face is noble, but worn with suffering and stamped with the impress of a strong will—he is evidently much excited by what he is saying; but he ought not to be talking at all. He is partially paralyzed in both his legs and can only walk with crutches. The excitement of to-day will cost him dear."

THE New York Sun says of Mr. Greeley's apparent somnolence:

"Mr. Greeley's sleep is one of his remarkable peculiarities. It is really an attitude of profound attention. There is a tradition in the Tribune office that some twenty-five years ago he attended a lecture delivered by Bishop Hughes, afterward Archbishop of his diocese. He occupied a seat on the platform. When the Bishop began to speak, Mr. Greeley closed his eyes and began to nod. His head dropped on his breast, and in ten minutes his placid but not inaudible breathing formed a monotonous accompaniment to the polished and brilliant sentences of the Bishop. At the conclusion of the lecture Mr. Greeley returned to the Tribune office, and at midnight learned that the reporter detailed to attend the meeting had failed to appear. Thereupon Mr. Greeley went to his desk and wrote out a two-column report of the lecture, even reproducing many of the Bishop's exact sentences. The editor of the Tribune, it is said, has frequently written out first-class reports of Dr. Chapin's eloquent sermons, though apparently in a sound sleep during their delivery. The case is one of unusual psychological and physiological interest. We have never heard of any other instance in which the mental powers are so wide awake while the outward appearance was one of such profound somnolence."

PRIVATE letters from San Francisco state that the accounts of the richness of the White Pine silver mines are greatly exaggerated; that the stories published in the papers are gotten up by interested parties; that some few miners have made money, but most people who have gone there have been disappointed. They write letters to warn persons from going there with great expectations, as they are likely to be disappointed.

Why Do Not Our Teeth Last Our Lifetime?

That they are made perfect, if the right materials are furnished, there cannot be a doubt.

But are the necessary elements furnished to children as they are the young of other animals? And do we not subject our teeth to deleterious influences from which animals that obey their natural instinct are exempt.

The former young of other animals, while dependent on the mother, get lime, and phosphorus, and potash, and silex, and all the other elements of which the teeth are composed, from the blood or milk of the mother, and she gets them from the food which Nature provides containing these elements in their natural proportions.

But when can the child in its forming state get these necessary elements, whose mother lives principally on starch, and butter, and sugar, neither of which contains a particle of lime, phosphorus, potash or silex? Nature performs no miracles. She makes teeth as glass is made, by combining the elements which compose them according to her own chemical priciples. And this illustration is the more forcible because the composition of of the enamel of the teeth and of glass is very nearly identical; both, at least, requiring the combination of silex with some alkaline principle.

If, then, the mother of an unborn or nursing infant lives on white bread and butter, pastry and confectionery, which contain no silex, and very little of the other elements which compose the teeth, nothing short of a miracle can give her a child with good teeth, and especially with teeth well enamelled.

But what articles of food will make good teeth? Good milk will make good teeth, for it makes them for calves. Good meat will make good teeth, for it makes them for lions and wolves. Good vegetables and fruits will make good teeth, for they make them for monkeys.

Good corn, oats, barley, wheat, rye, and, indeed, everything that grows, will make good teeth, if eaten in their natural state, no elements being taken out; for every one of them does make teeth for horses, cows, sheep, or some other animal. But starch, sugar, lard, or butter will not make good teeth. You tried them all with your child's first teeth, and failed; and your neighbors have tried them, and indeed all Christendom has tried them, and the result is that a man or woman at forty with good, sound teeth is a very rare exception.—Dr. A. J. Bellows.

THE first number of the "The Imperialist" has made its appearance in New York City. It advocates the abrogation of a republican or democratic form of government for the United States and the substitution of a monarchy, on the assumption that the former is a failure. The name of the editor or publisher does not appear on the imprint. The leading article declares that "the paper has been established to give expressions to opinions long held and cherished by thousands of intelligent men and women in all parts of the country, who will hail its advent as the beginning of a new era in the political history of America." It is in form quarto, containing sixteen pages. The title is ornamented with the crown. Some assert that Louis Napoleon provides the money to sustain it, while others are quite as confident that its real projector is an enterprising member of the Erie Railway Directorship, who is anxious to create a new sensation, of which he may be himself the hero.

DURING an experiment with an atmospheric pressure gas machine in an office on Congress street, Boston, the other day, an explosion of chemicals took place, filling the room with flame, and bulging out the front wall and granite window caps. The flames spread fiercely through the lower story and up the staircase, cutting off the escape for the twenty or thirty persons employed in the rooms above. The fire had reached the fourth story before any means of escape was found. Then a ladder was thrown across an alley fifteen feet wide, whose length was barely enough to rest on the sills, and on a board placed on this frail bridge, five stories high, four young women and fifteen men passed—a trial that made some of the men so dizzy that they straddled the ladder and hitched across, but all the girls walked bravely over.

A COMMUNICATION was recently made to the Society of Civil Engineers in Paris on the use of asphalte for the preservation of buildings, and especially stores of forage, from fire. After five successive conflagrations at the stables and depots of of the Paris Omnibus Company, it was observed that while the flooring and planks of the upper stories were completely destroyed, the flames had always spared certain lofts, the boards of which had always been coated with bitumen, to preserve the forage from becoming impaired by the steam from the stables below. The asphalte, laid on for a thickness of about four-fifths of an inch, had on each occasion been reached by the fire, but had only liquefied for a certain thickness, and on aid arriving, all that had to be done to restore it to its former hard state was to cover it with water.

THERE is considerable sectional animosity between Galesburg and Knoxville, in Knox county, Illinois, arising to a considerable extent, from a struggle to secure the county-seat. An illustration of this feeling is the following from the Galesburg Free Press: "During a visit to Knoxville, a few days since, passing in front of the principal store in the village, we halted for a moment before the proprietor, whom we happened to know, and asked him, 'How's trade?' 'Well,' said he, slowly removing a half-chewed straw from his mouth, and looking for encouragement towards the court-house, 'It's pooty brisk; pickin' up a good 'eal. Old granny M—— was in 'yer this mornin', 'n traded for an egg's worth of tea, to be paid for when her pullet lays.'"

A WEALTHY and eccentric Englishwoman died a few weeks since at her villa on the shores of Lake Geneva, and her furniture is now offered for sale. She thought she was to become the Messiah's bride as soon as he could re-appear on earth. In the expectation that her mad idea was certain to be realized at an early day, she kept in her parlor a magnificent throne, which was to be used as the bench of judgment on doomsday. The parlor itself is separated from the bridal chamber by means of the most costly Turkey carpets. The chamber contains an entirely untouched bed, so large that several families could sleep in it side by side.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.

A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.

It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.

The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

RIVER NEWS.

The weather continues cloudy and cool, but pleasant. The river was stationary last evening, with scant seven feet in the channel. There have been no arrivals since the date of our last report, aside from the regular packets. The St. Marys from Cincinnati and Julia No. 2 from Zanesville, are due this morning, and the Alaska from Cincinnati will probably get in sometime during the day.

The Grey Eagle, from Parkersburg, came on her last trip with one of the best trips of the season; full of freight and nearly one hundred cabin passengers.

The St. Marys will return to Cincinnati as usual to-morrow, leaving at noon.

The Robt. Burns, for Missouri river, and Minneapolis, for St. Paul, departed on Saturday. The latter boat had a splendid trip, and she deserved it, as she is a splendid boat.

Capt. C. A. Dravo, we understand, has taken or is about to take command of the Waunita.

Capt. Jack Harrison has purchased an interest in the line between Wheeling and Parkersburg, and is now in command of the Rebecca.

The Wild Duck left Cincinnati for St. Louis on Friday evening, with two barges, containing 1,100 tons for Pittsburgh manufacturers. Pilots—S C Pattersen and B Clarke.

Richard Hill, engineer of the ferryboat at Nebraska city, was shot and killed by the acting pilot, Wm. Bebout, one week ago Saturday. A dispute arose on firing up to take a traveler over after the boat had been tied up for the night, when Bebout drew a pistol and fired three times at Hill, two shots taking effect in his breast. The murderer escaped in a skiff down the river.

The Camelia, Capt. Thos. H. Golding, is filling up steadily for Nashville, and will be the first boat out.

Capt. R. M. Wade has quit the Gen. Lytle for the present, to go into the railroad business as freight agent. Capt. Harry Brashears now has command of the Lytle.

The new steamer Australia, is now ready to make engagements for New Orleans. Capt. Dan Moore will be found ready to wait on those having business with the Australia.

—The Mary Davage, from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, passed Cincinnati on Thursday.

—The Great Republic passed by Memphis on Thursday, enroute to New Orleans.

—The Bermuda is to be sold by the United States Marshal, at Memphis, to-morrow.

—The Alaski left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Thursday evening. Pilots—Thomas Morris and John Ferguson.

—The Mollie Ebert, arrived at St. Louis on Thursday, and the Ida Rees left there the same day for Fort Benton.

—The new steamer Minneapolis, will be presented with a handsome set of colors on her arrival at Minneapolis, Minnesota.

—The bill introduced in Congress by Mr. Niblack, creating a board of local inspectors at Evansville, also provides for the repeal of the act of 1852, creating a local board at Nasville.

—The Sallie arrived at St. Louis from Omaha on Tuesday night with a fair trip. Her steward was accidentally left at Omaha, but reached there about the same time as the boat, having come by rail.

—The Dubuque Times, of Tuesday, says: Rates have been lowered on the regular boats to 20 cents for grain from here to St. Louis, there being plenty of water any where on the river. This is a move that will please shippers and keep out wild boats.

—The Andy Johnston's jackstaff came in contact with the telegraph wires that cross the river at Quincy, and of course the jackstaff got the worst of the collision. Quincy papers say, that if the river continues to rise, smoke stacks will suffer from the same wires.

—Some time ago proceedings were instituted before the Local Board of Inspectors at Memphis against the Argonaut for employing an unlicensed pilot, and the case referred to Colonel J. V. Guthrie, Supervising Inspector of the Seventh District. He has referred the case back to the Local Board at Memphis, with the opinion that, under the acts of 1838 and 1858, when a licensed pilot leaves the wheel of a steamer in charge of an unlicensed man, both the boat and pilot are liable, and that the law requires all boats to have competent crews.

—We clip the following from the Cincinnati Gazette: While the towboat Mary Davage, from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, was lying here, rather an amusing incident occurred. A new colored chambermaid had been hired, and she did not know all the crew by sight. The mate, Mr. J. Clegg, went into the cabin to light his pipe. The chambermaid said she "did not allow smoking in the cabin." The mate paid no attention to her. A pillow was shied at the mate's head. The trouble ended by the chambermaid being forcibly put ashore. Having learned that the party with whom she had the difficulty was an officer on the boat, she posted off to the clerk of the U. S. Court and had Capt. Shedden arrested on some pretext—non-payment of wages, perhaps—and he was required to give bond in the sum of $500 for his appearance, and let the boat go up the river without him.

U. S. BONDS at Frankfort, 87@87⅜.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp, 52½@53f.

GOLD closed in New York Saturday at 133¼.

CONGRESS adjourned, on Saturday, until December. The Senate remains in Executive session, and is expected to act upon the principal diplomatic nominations this week.

THE last Illinois Legislature declared the right of married women "to receive, use and possess their own earnings and sue for the same in their own names, free from the interference of husbands or creditors."

IT is hinted that the Quaker proclivities of the President's Indian policy were suggested by Gen. MCCLELLAN, whose profound respect for Quaker expedients to keep the peace was uniformly displayed on the Virginian Peninsula.

THE Pacific Railway controversy has been adjusted, at least for the present. Under the failure of the two roads to agree upon some point for meeting, Congress proceeded to fix that point at Ogden, and ordered that bonds should be withheld from each Company, for a sufficient mileage on either side of that point to ensure the completion by each of a first-class read. The two Companies then came to an immediate agreement as to the disputed details—and will hereafter be allied in the common cause against the Treasury.

WE ARE occasionally struck by the fine and solid sense evinced by that uncompromisingly Democratic journal, the Philadelphia News. It is really refreshing to find one such journal in Pennsylvania, which dares to speak the truth sometimes, and which always knows how to do it effectively. For example, it now says:

> The Democratic party must be "reconstructed," or rather something else must be substituted for it. The leaders sold it out in New York; it was sold out many a time before in Pennsylvania, and will be beaten again in this State in the coming canvass, if new men are not put forward to manage and direct it.

CONFIDENCE is universally felt that the reconstruction of Virginia, Texas and Mississippi will be completed, by their respective elections, at an early date, under the law of last week, and by the Congressional approval in December. Under the power conferred upon the President, each of their Constitutions will be submitted to separate votes upon their controverted sections—the effect of which will be to secure the adoption of the main body of each instrument, by the respective peoples, and the transfer of all questions concerning disfranchisement to Congress for a final settlement.

NO ORGANIZATION has yet been effected in the Indiana Legislature, the newly elected opposition members persisting in their demand for inadmissible concessions from the majority. The Democracy have not been encouraged by the success of their recent appeal to the people. The bolters have been re-elected by largely diminished votes, in some cases being opposed by independent candidates of their own party. If our friends are tenacious of their position, a second Democratic bolt is improbable, and if attempted would be disastrous to them. The people won't stand nonsense forever.

CUBA AND THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

The proposition to authorize the President to recognize the belligerent rights of the Cuban insurgents was at last engineered through a thin and exhausted House, on Saturday morning. It was then sent to the Senate, a few moments before the hour for adjournment—which interval was improved by Mr. WILSON, after the fashion long ago set by "Honest" JOHN DAVIS; he took the floor, speaking until the session was legally closed.

Earlier in the session, the Senate "squelched" a similar resolution from the House. We prefer to believe that it would have done the same on Saturday, but General WILSON took the shortest, and an equally effective, way of putting a quietus on this mischievous piece of folly. But, had the resolution gone to a vote and to a Senatorial concurrence, we are confident that the question would have been dealt with discreetly by the Administration. We have no idea that the President would be betrayed, by the clamor of a half dozen prominent journalists in the leading Eastern cities, into the fatal mistake of compromising our National diplomacy, and the American interpretation of international law, by any premature recognition of the Cuban rebels. He knows that the entire American case against England, in the affair of the Alabama claims, hangs upon those precise considerations which the House of Representatives would now urge him to abandon. He is aware of the universally prevalent belief that the journals alluded to are heavily subsidized, from the funds of the wealthy insurgents, to swallow their own arguments and jeremiads against the unfriendly haste of England, and to neutralize, in New York and Philadelphia, the blunders of Earl RUSSELL, the international honesty of Glasgow and Liverpool, and the morals of LAIRD, of SEMMES, and of every blockade-runner, or more than half pirate, who found legal protection in that British policy which Mr. BANKS invokes us to adopt towards Spain.

If the President were really unaware of the absolute need for the greatest caution in these premises, we should not hesitate to implore him to take no such action, against a power at peace with us, until this country shall be fitly represented at the English Court; until our new Minister shall be fully instructed as to all our claims for reparation from Great Britain, for her unfriendly policy and acts during our rebellion,—and then, when our Alabama case is completely prepared, the only policy in which the President can be justified, towards Spain and her rebel province, will be precisely that by which our own claims against England must stand or fall. Our Cuban policy must be squared by that which we are urging in London, or the Alabama case will be itself ruined altogether by this wretched scheme of West Indian filibustering.

We warn the Administration and the country not to be deceived for a moment by the clamorous cry of half a dozen venal newspapers. Let these shriek in concert for "Cuban freedom" as long, as loudly and with as much ludicrous inconsistency as they may severally be paid for from Cuban funds. They may abuse their own types and the credulity of their unreflecting readers, but they do not represent the National intelligence and honesty. The people sympathize with struggling liberty everywhere, but it must present clearer claims than these Cuban insurgents have yet shown. That Spain which followed the English lead, in giving countenance to our own rebels, is not the Spain which now resists the spoliation of her most valuable dependency. The revolution, which expelled Bourbonism from her throne, wiped out every vindictive feeling from the American breast. If any claims for reparation remain to us against the Spanish people, let us present them in form and await their rejection, before visiting upon a third-rate foreign power the revenge which no "precedent" justifies in that case. This would be vastly more creditable to the American honor, than to retire from an unprofitable contest with a first-rate power like Great Britain, in order to rob Spain because she is really powerless to resist us.

Our people cannot afford to give up the Alabama claims, in the interest of Cuban recognition. That is the whole case, and we believe that the Administration so understands it. The rights of our citizens in Cuba are to be duly protected, and the rights of Spain over her beautiful but inquiet province will be faithfully respected. Beyond these limits, American honor can never go; if it falls short of them, it will earn the derision of Christendom; the only actual peril, to-day, is that we may, thoughtlessly, or negligently, drift away from the right moorings, and into the most unfortunate complications before we know it.

NEXT OCTOBER.

It is proper to remind our friends, throughout the Commonwealth, that results of the highest local consequence are to be controlled by the next Autumn's election. A Governor, a Supreme Judge and other officers are to be chosen, with one-third of the Senate, and the entire body of the Representative branch of the Legislature. The Governor is to hold his office for three years, and the new Senators will have the same term. The Representatives are chosen annually. Holding the veto-power, the approval of the Executive is essential to the validity of all legislation. Hence, this legislation, for the three years from and after January next, upon all questions which are likely to array the people in political divisions, must be controlled by the political opinions of the new Executive, and, as is probable, to a considerable extent, by the Senators chosen in 1869.

First in political consequence among such questions, will be those which relate to the apportionment among the counties of the State, of our Congressional representation under the census of 1870. The statistics of this census will be placed before Congress in the winter of '70-'71, and the number of our Representatives will be fixed at the earliest possible day of that session—doubtless in season for action thereupon by our Legislature, at its session commencing in January, 1870. At the same session, the Commonwealth is also to be re-divided into legislative districts, for the election of one hundred Representatives, with not less than twenty-five nor more than thirty-three Senators; the exact number of the latter, between those limits, is to be defined by the same Legislature. The Congressional apportionment will hold for ten years, and that of the Legislature for seven years, both from 1871.

This concurrent duty, of the two apportionments at the same session, cannot again devolve upon the Legislature of Pennsylvania until 1941. The Governor and Senators chosen next October, holding office for three years, will decisively control the apportionment-policy of 1869-70. The same questions will be again presented, but within narrower limits, in the election for Representatives in October, 1870. While both elections are of such consequence, the first, that of the next autumn, is, for obvious reasons, the more vitally important.

While the two apportionments can thus fall together, at the same session, but once in each period of seventy years, they will come nearly together more frequently. The Governor and Senators chosen in 1899, thirty years hence, will act upon each question, but at different sessions of their three years' term. The same thing will hold good of the same officials chosen in 1908 and 1929. Thus we see that both apportionments devolve upon the same session but once, and upon the same Governor and Senators but four times, in the seventy years' period.

Leaving the later dates to take care of themselves, let us say one word respecting the canvass of next October. We need not dwell on the very great importance of retaining the control of those responsible duties, in the hands which represent the settled opinions of the popular majority in this Commonwealth. What might, and would, be attempted in the way of effectively disfranchising that majority, by a Legislature in which accident or neglect should present a Democratic preponderance, we have already good reason to know. They would so gerrymander the apportionments as to retain the legislative control, and the largest number of Congressmen, in the face of popular majorities against them, and these majorities would be powerless to prevent the wrong.

Our friends must therefore perceive how necessary it will be, not only to guard the Senatorial elections of October, watching the strong districts and vigorously contesting the close ones, but also to go into the general canvass with the strongest ticket for State officers within the selection of the Republican party. We have a seven years' war to fight next autumn; unless we win that battle decisively, we are doomed to seven following years of uniform defeat, from which no popular majorities, however decisive, can afterwards redeem the Republican organization. Beaten on the Governor and Senators, and especially on the first, in October, no future reaction of popular sentiment can help us; we shall be bound, and past relief. With timely prudence,—with personal concessions and self-denials,—with fidelity to principles alone,—without the sacrifice of higher aims to private ambition, or to the jealousies of cabals,—with the Republican party united, as it has been and ever should be, upon the single principle of the greatest good to the greatest number—a principle as applicable to the discipline of a party as to the policy of a Republic,—with a bold avowal of the living doctrines of progress—with candidates who can stand upon the platform, and are not to be sacrificed to personal feelings beneath it or beside it, —with a square and honest pull altogether, we can do even better next Autumn than we did under GRANT last November, securing a seven years' Republican supremacy in this great Commonwealth.

In this view we must regard the man, or the men, no matter whom, who shall carry personal ambitions or animosities into the ensuing canvass, to the peril and perhaps to the irreparable injury of the party, as unworthy of Republican confidence, or even of the Republican name, either now or hereafter.

THE PREROGATIVE OF MERCY.

Governor GEARY has very properly vetoed the bill passed last week, which assumed to authorize an Executive commutation of the death penalty to a life-imprisonment, on his discretion. The veto is strictly in consonance with the Constitution of Pennsylvania; indeed the provisions of that instrument left no alternative for the Executive consideration. The commutation proposition was clearly in contravention of the fundamental law of the Commonwealth, of which section IX, article 2, treating of the powers of the Governor, reads as follows:

> He shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures, and grant reprieves and pardons, except in cases of impeachment.

Section XIII. of the same article says:

> He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Section 21, of article IX, the Declaration of Rights, asserts the "inviolable and indefeasible right of the people to alter or reform their government, in such manner as they may think proper."

Section 24 of the same article, "guarding against transgressions of the high powers" which the Constitution delegates, declares that this, with the other rights specified in the entire article, "shall forever remain inviolate," as "excepted out of the general powers of government."

These citations embody the entire fundamental law bearing on this question. Their text and tenor clearly establish the invalidity of the legislation which the Executive veto has thus annulled. Approving that law, Governor GEARY would have violated his own official oath for "the faithful execution of the laws"—first of which, and at the base of all valid legislation, is the Constitution itself.

There is to-day—and it has been equally true for the entire thirty years since the adoption of the present Constitution—no power, either in the Legislature or in the Governor, or in both departments conjointly, authorizing the commutation of one form of penalty, following conviction for offences, into any other form. The Governor may remit a penalty altogether by his pardon; he may suspend its execution by a reprieve; he may forgive the crime, or may delay its punishment, but cannot substitute one penalty for another. That is a power which the people of this Commonwealth have never yet conferred upon either Governor, Legislature, or both together, and which abides with the people, until it may be expressly granted by the proper change to be made in the fundamental law. It was legally enough that no power of commutation was given by the section first cited. The maxim is law, that the specified definition of any function, right, or duty, excludes all all other things not specified. The expressed right to remit penalties, to grant pardons and reprieves, is a legal prohibition to exercise any rights or powers not therein embraced. In that view, the cited section as clearly prohibits the proposed power of commutation, as it maintains the defined limits of the Executive prerogative. No power but that of the people can give this right,—and that power can only be executed in the proper channel of a Constitutional amendment.

This is no new question. It has been always a familiar one, not only to the legal profession and to the Executive Chamber, but to all well-informed citizens. There has been scarcely a year, since the date of this Constitution in '38, when there has not lain, in some prison of the Commonwealth, some miserable offender, convicted and duly sentenced to death, whose case has addressed itself to the Executive mercy as one not justifying that penalty, yet not wholly deserving of a free pardon. Under our laws, the Courts declare the death-penalty: the Governor alone designates the day of its execution. Hence, official clemency might spare the life of the offender, not with the pardon which he did not merit, but in the simple omission to issue the warrant for execution. And so, the wretched criminal might be left languishing, year after year, in his dungeon, his life in one man's hand, judicially dead already, yet dying a daily death, until released by pardon or by the common fate of mortality. Such a criminal lives, and has for eleven years lived, in Moyamensing prison to-day. There is another one there, if not lately deceased, who has been so confined for twenty years. The HESTER VAUGHN case has attracted the attention of the whole Christian world.

This condition of our criminal justice presents an anomaly not more remarkable than indefensible. Its amendment has been frequently proposed, and often by imperfect legislative methods, the latest of which was vetoed last week. The Constitution must be reformed; until then, paradoxical as the remark may seem, that instrument effectively confers upon the Executive a right, altogether unconstitutional as it is unknown to its text, that of inflicting an imprisonment for life. He has this power already in legal effect, and constitutionally exercises it; the recent bill aimed at its specific legalization, and was therefore clearly unconstitutional.

We thank Governor GEARY for his Executive fidelity in this matter. We have no desire to censure the humane promptings which have led the Legislature to overstep the constitutional limits. Rather, we shall rejoice if the people of Pennsylvania are at last to discover, as a result of this discussion, the need for such a change of our fundamental law as shall humanely and wisely enlarge the Executive prerogative, in the interests of justice and of an enlightened humanity.

The attacks on President Grant in Dana's New York paper are understood to proceed from the coldness which his applications for office were treated.

There has not yet been any movement by Secretary Fish to take up the Consulates, over all of which there is a great contest, and ten applications for every place.

Governor Curtin has been agreed upon in Cabinet meeting for the mission to St. Petersburg.

A delegation from the Philadelphia Union League is here, pressing George H. Boker for the mission to Spain.

It is now definitely settled that Hon. J. Lathrop Motley will go to England, Curtin to Russia, and Sickles to Mexico. Governor Geary is pressing Louis W. Hall for a resident mission with all his strength. Mr. Watts will be relieved from Vienna. Mr. Sanford will stay at Brussels, Mr. Dudley as Consul at Liverpool, and Mr. Marsh as Minister to Italy. John Hickman's name was presented today for a foreign appointment.

The position of the Administration upon the Cuban question was again the subject of Cabinet consultation on Saturday, and the position assumed by Secretary Fish, that this Government must maintain for itself the policy it exacted of foreign powers during the late war, regarding belligerent rights, was fully approved. There will, therefore, be nothing done by the Government looking to the Cuban insurgents. Every American citizen, however, who has been arrested in Cuba, will be protected by this Government.

MONTICELLO, the former residence of Thomas Jefferson, in Albemarle county, Virginia, is to be sold at auction on the 13th day of May next. The sale is by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Richmond.

THE SOUTH.

THE number of voters in Montgomery county, Tennessee, is estimated at 3,100. Of this number 763 are white, and 2,377 colored.

JOHN B. KING, of Madison county, Kentucky, was recently killed by his son because he would not divide his estate with him.

FORTY Swiss families, supposed to possess $1,000 apiece on an average, are about to settle in Grundy county, Tennessee. They will engage in agricultural pursuits, and have already begun to arrive at their new home.

WOLVES are committing many ravages in the northern part of Anite county, Mississippi. A number of sheep and hogs have been killed already. The wolves have been forced to take to the hills in search of food, in consequence of the continued high waters in the Mississippi swamps.

A NEGRO was drowned by a catfish in Lake Concordia, Louisiana, opposite Natchez, a few days since. The negro was trying to haul the catfish out, but the the fish hauled him in, and he was drowned before assistance could be rendered.

COPPER ORE of great richness is being found in Rowan county, North Carolina. Specimens have been taken to Raleigh, which contain forty-five per cent. of pure metal.

IT IS said that Adjutant and Inspector-General F. S. Moses, Jr., has gone to New Haven, Connecticut, for the purpose of purchasing two thousand Springfield rifles for the militia of Charleston, South Carolina.

THE Lebanon (Tenn.) Herald says: "We still continue to hear the most encouraging news in regard to the growing wheat crop in this county. An unusual quantity was sown, and it has passed through the winter without injury. It is thick upon the ground and of fine color. With a favorable season from now until harvest, the yield will equal, if it does not surpass the famous crop of 1855."

THE New Iberia (La.) Times of the 26th ult. says: After all the fears entertained, we are going to have a good fruit season. Peaches are already as large as bird's eggs, and figs, plums, oranges, etc., promise as well.

THE Charleston (S. C.) News says that city is now feeling the healthy influence of the profitable cotton crop of the year, which gave the producer the means of paying off a load of old debts and left him with some money in hand for the purchase of the comforts as well as the necessaries of life.

THE Lexington Statesman says: "We learn that friends of John C. Breckinridge are raising a fund for the purpose of purchasing and presenting to him a residence in this city."

THE Crown Princess Victoria, of Prussia, had recently a long conversation with some American ladies in Berlin on her favorite subject—the employment of women in fields which are now closed to them. In the course of the conversation the Crown Princes inquired with evident interest about the progress of the female suffrage movement in the United States. Her Royal Highness said she was in favor of the movement, and had as yet seen nothing to convince her that it was wrong. This will be good news to Clara Mundt, Mme. Amely Boite, and the other leading advocates of female suffrage in Germany.

TRUSSES AND HERNIA.

The sad and deplorable condition of many who are afflicted with hernia or rupture of the bowels, calls loudly for some efficient and unmistakable remedy that will not only in every case give efficient relief, but in many cases effect a radical and thorough cure. These cases of hernia have become so frequent, that it is computed that one-sixth of the male population are said to be troubled, in some way or another, with this terrible ailment; and in very many cases do not know where to apply for an appropriate remedy, oftentimes not knowing whether an appliance is really needed or not; and if it should be needed, they often do not know where or to whom they should make application. The world is full of Trusses for the retention and cure of this lamentable evil, oftentimes an incontestable proof of their total and inadequate fitness to relieve the sufferer. This need not be; Dr. Keyser, at his new medicine store, No. 167 Liberty street, is abundantly supplied with every appliance, needful to the retention and relief of this terrible affliction, so that every one can be properly fitted at a moderate cost, with the full assurance that the appliance is the best that the mechanical department of surgery can afford. The Doctor has pursued the investigation of hernia with more than ordinary care for over thirty years, so that the afflicted can place implicit reliance on his skill and integrity with the full assurance that they will not only get the best truss, suitable to the case, but likewise a thorough and efficient knowledge of its proper application.

There are many persons who not only sacrifice their health, but even their lives, for want of a proper truss, or a truss properly applied. Strangulated and irreducable rupture, is a far more common ailment now than in former years; and may we not justly arrive at the conclusion, that its frequency is often occasioned by the neglect and carelessness of the sufferers themselves. No one would be regarded as sane or excusable who would go for a whole winter without the proper clothing to shield them from the inclemency of the weather, but, at the same time, it is thought a light affair to suffer for years with a protrusion that not only subjects the person to inconvenience, but even places life itself in jeopardy. Those of our readers who may be unfortunate to need appliances of this kind cannot act more wisely than to cut this advertisement out and preserve it, so as to enable them to retain the place where such important preservers of life and health are to be procured.

WOMAN AND HER NEEDS.

Subject by the law of nature to many physical afflictions from which man is exempt, woman is peculiarly entitled to the best efforts of medical science in her behalf. For a majority of the ailments to which her sex is exclusively liable, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are warmly recommended on the authority of wives, mothers and nurses, who have tested their genial tonic and regulating properties, and "know whereof they speak;" and also with the sanction of able physicians, who have administered the preparation to their female patients, in obstinate cases of functional derangement, with the happiest results. Almost all female complaints of special character are complicated with mental gloom and despondency, and the gentle and lasting exhilerating effects of this wholesome medicated stimulant adapts admirably for cases of this complex nature. As a remedy for the hysteria and mental hallucinations which sometimes mark both the earlier and the later crisis in the life of a woman, it has no equal in the repertory of the healing art, and as a means of relieving the nausea and other unpleasant feelings which precede maternity, it is equally efficacious. Nursing mothers also find it an admirable invigorant. It is highly satisfactory that a preparation, which embraces in its remedial ranges so many of the complaints common to both sexes, should prove so eminently beneficial to the weaker one.

TO IRON MANUFACTUPERS.
FINELY DIVIDED ORE.

Parties needing machines to reduce the product of our regular Crushers down to fine grains, are informed that we are prepared to furnish a small machine, gotten up expressly for that purpose, at a price amounting to only a fraction of that demanded for any other machine that will do an equal amount of the work. Those who take reasonable measures to find out facts—not trusting to hearsay—may escape contracting for more expensive machinery than they need to crush their ore. One of these small machines, together with one of our Breakers of the usual style, (the former being fed from the latter by one handling of the material,) will, if properly managed, reduce ore from ordinary lumps to pass through No. 5 mesh at the rate of about a ton an hour; or through No. 8 mesh at the rate of two-thirds of a ton per hour.

With a view to the introduction of this crusher a limited number of parties, wanting the kind and amount of work done which we pronounce the machine capable of doing, will each be furnished one of them on trial, free for thirty days, or other period agreed on, the machine to be set up and run according to our specifications.

Parties disposed to consider this proposition, will confer with the subscriber.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, April 10, 1869.

The gold market was very much excited on Saturday and closed strong in consequence of the great scarcity of cash gold. The short interest is very large, but it seems a good deal of it has been covered on Saturday, and the sudden advance is perhaps due to the unwillingness of parties to submit to the exhorbitant loaning rate, amounting to ½ per cent. over Sunday. The Secretary of the Treasury is very much blamed for his petet scheme, as it is decried, of the rebate of 6 per cent. on the May interest cashed, although it is perfectly legitimate.

The bond market was strong, especially in 1862s, in which it is talked of as being a corner in these bonds but that they are loaned flat; the whole list is well sustained, but it is admitted by all dealers that the present prices cannot be sustained even on an easier money market; the large dealers keep themselves barely supplied, and expect to buy lower for their regular stock kept on hand after the May disbursements have begun.

The stock market was off from Friday's quotations, but steady at the decline. The stringency of the money market makes buyers very cautious, but the share market remains strong.

Money very scarce.

Business is improving very slowly.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 10, 1869.

The money market, which at one time was easy at 7 per cent. currency, subsequently became stringent, the demand continuing until after bank hours, when 7 per cent. currency and commissions of 1-16@⅛ per cent. were paid. The amendatory tax bill, which has become a law, saves the market from a severe drain which would otherwise have come on it in the latter part of April. Discounts dull; best names 10@15 per cent. Bank statements show a large contraction in loans, and a decrease of a million and three-quarters in total reserve, against a reduction of four millions in total liabilities, shows the banks relatively stronger. Loans, $427,780,220; decrease, $4,453,448; specie, $8,794,543; decrease, $1,943,350. Circulation, $34,609,360; decrease, $207,556. Deposits, $171,495,580; decrease, $3,830,209. Legal Tenders, $48,644,732; increase $148,373.

The payments for customs and duties this week amounted to $2,738,000. Sterling is dull at 7⅝@8 per cent. for prime bills. Gold is firm, opened at 133⅛, rose to 133¾ and closed at 133⅝. The Gold Room was very much excited on the announcement that the Bank of New York had refused to pay gold checks to the amount of $230,000. It appears the Gold Exchange Bank in making settlements with a prominent broker firm gave twelve individual certified gold checks on the Bank of New York, which the latter refused to pay on the score of a breach of faith by the Gold Exchange Bank, to whom they were, it is claimed, given on the understanding that they were not to be used to-day. In the Gold Room the conclusion was pimped at that the bank did not have the gold.

The rates paid for borrowing till Monday were 3-32 @½ per cent. Clearances $107,000,000. Exports, $62,255; and for the week $326,350, little, however, to Europe. The coupon bonds held abroad are expected here next week, and will make cash gold plenty. Disbursements on account of May interest thus far are only $371,000. Governments active and higher, closing steady; coupons of '81, 116@116¼; do. '62, 120@120⅛; do. '64, 115@115⅛; do. '65, 117@117⅛; new do., 113¾@113⅞; do. '67, 113¾@113⅞; do. '68, 113¾@114; 10-40s, 105¼@105½; Pacific Sixes, 33⅞@34. State bonds quiet and steady; new Tennessees, 65½@65⅞; North Carolinas, 55½@36.

Stock market generally lower, under sales to realize sharp advance of yesterday, and apprehensions concerning money market. Most active stocks were Rhode Island, North Western, St. Paul, Wabash and New York Central. Market closed quiet and steady, with partial recovery from lowest rates.

5-30 Prices—Cumberland, 33@35; Wells Express, 31@31½; American, 40¼@40½; Adams, 59⅜@59¾; Mchts. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, April 10, 1869.

Business generally, although still dull and depressed, is beginning to give some evidence of improvement, and hopes are entertained that the worst is passed, and that better times are near at hand. The demand for almost everything is restricted entirely to supplying immediate wants, the stringency in money matters preventing anything of a speculative character, while values generally are without important change.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, April 10, 1869.

Up until to-day the oil market has been very tame throughout the past week, the business in the aggregate being unusually light, while prices generally ruled lower. To-day, however, there was a better feeling, and with considerable inquiry for both present and future delivery, Crude as well as Refined, advanced fully half a cent. The time and attention of dealers generally has been pretty well absorbed in arranging for deliveries, and in some cases this was a very difficult matter, causing a good deal of trouble and creating considerable confusion. We are cognizant of one lot of 500 bbls of Crude passing through half a dozen hands before it found the right person, and in some instances the same oil would reach one person two or three times. The receipts of Crude during the week have been liberal, but the great proportion of it was put in on former contracts, so that the quantity of oil really on the market for sale, is not rs large as many have been led to believe.

CRUDE—The Crude market, as already intimated, was stronger to-day, and compared with yesterday, prices are a shade better. Sale 2,000 bbls seller June, at 16; 1,000 seller till July at 15; 1,000 spot on private terms; and 2,000 each, May and June at 16. Spot oil may be quoted strong at 15, against some few offers to sell yesterday, at 14¾. Private advices report a stronger feeling in the oil regions, also.

REFINED—April, last half, which was quoted at 31½, yesterday, opened to-day at 31¾, afterwards advanced to 32, and 3 P. M. 32½ was bid, showing an advance of a cent. Sale 1,000 last half May at 33¼; 500 May to September at 35½; and 2,000 April on private terms.

RECAPITULATION — Receipts of Crude during the week, 47,691 bbls; last week, 13,025; from January 1st to date, 197,369; same time last year, 232,817; Exports Refined this week, 4,099; last week 4,751; from January 1st to date 83,848; same time last year, 70,372; sales this week, 49,500; last week 69,500.

A NIGHT IN A STORM.

It was a private parlor of a hotel in the Provinces. Two men sat at a well-spread breakfast table. The younger had just pushed back from the table with an impatient movement.

"No," he said abruptly, "I cannot eat, I cannot drink. If I believed in presentiments I should say I felt a warning of something disagreeable if not horrible."

"Well, then, my dear nephew," said the elder, "as you do not believe in such things, why not make yourself comfortable and enjoy your breakfast? You are not to start until to-morrow anyway, you know."

The young man arose from his seat and walked to the window, throwing it open and looking out into the frosty, brilliant sunshine. The air was intensely cold, and reddened his cheeks instantly. He drew in his head, saying—

"I shall start this morning. There's going to be a storm, and I must go. Will you accompany me to the station? The train starts in an hour."

The uncle shivered and drew his dressing gown closer.

"No," he said, "I'll not leave the house unless I'm obliged to. I did not leave England to get frozen by a Canadian winter. I did not know you were so sentimentally foolish. Alice will not thank you for coming a day sooner. Women don't like a bridegroom around when the wedding preparations are going on, no matter how much in love they are. Take my advice, and stay here until the time appointed for you to start."

Robert Russell, the young man addressed, listened with grave civility to his companions words.

What was such advice in comparison with the urgent cries of his whole nature? He had left England three weeks before, to claim the woman of his choice; who had been a year in Montreal, whither she had emigrated with her parents, carrying with her the love and promise of one in whom she believed with utter devotion.

Russell's uncle and adopted father had accompanied him, and now sat smiling at the impatience, the whims of youth.

"There is a storm rising in the air in spite of the sunlight," Russell said, still standing by the window, "I should not enjoy being blockaded in by snow on my journey."

"Probably not; but you might as well expect it in this climate."

"Well, I shall take Alice back to England as soon as possible," Russell said, with his hand on the door. Good bye, uncle, then, good bye."

Russell was soon speeding from the town, his eyes looking eagerly forward over the vast stretches of snow as if he would outstrip even the steam which bore him.

He was not half through his journey by rail, when from the west, where it had lingered throughout the sunny morning, rose the filmy white veil that is the herald of snow. Weather-wise people looked out of the car windows and shook their heads, saying—

"This will be a hard one. It's just a year since the terrible storm that blockaded in this train."

Russell, looking, felt his face grow pallid in spite of his hopes, his youthful energy.

He did not fear the storm while on the cars; he knew they would get to their destination before the storm would be sufficiently advanced to retard them much. But he remembered the twenty miles he must go in a cutter after the last station, for Alice waited him at the residence of a relative beyond Montreal. Her aunt had persuaded her to have the wedding there, where wealth could give its glow to the ceremony, and what girl could resist such at invitation.

"If she were only in Montreal!" murmured Russell, and the first few flakes began to drift slowly downward.

Soon the air was filled with fine sharp particles. It grew colder instead of warmer, or apparently so, for the wind rose and whirled the snow fiercely.

It had snowed two hours when Russell alighted at the station in Montreal. It was already dark, save that the gloom had mitigated by a full moon.

He was half benumbed by cold and sitting so long, but he could not wait. Reason told him that he was a day early, and might easily stay in the city until to-morrow; but some feverish, morbid haste urged him on—it was impossible for him to rest quiet a moment.

He stood a few moments by the bright fire in the waiting room. Then he decided to go to the house occupied by Alice's parents.

Arrived at the house he learned with dismay that Alice had left two or three hours previous. Oppressed with fearful foreboding he hurried on, taking the road which his servant supposed her driver had selected. As he emerged into the open country the runners of the cutter sank deep into the snow. The horses struggled desperately through the drifts, while the blinding storm and benumbing cold almost overpowered him. To arouse himself from the lethargy which he felt was the precursor of death, he stepped out of the sleigh and plodded on beside it. For hours it seemed to him, he travelled, alternately walking and riding, the animals he drove being almost exhausted.

Suddenly, with a snort of surprise or alarm, his horses stopped and threw up their heads, their eyes starting in their sockets, at something indistinct in the gloom ahead.

There is something infecting in the alarm of an animal, and Russell felt his cheeks pale as he moved slowly forward, leaving the horses standing there.

A shudder like the first chill of an impending doom, shook the young man as he came upon a cutter overturned in the snow. He was close to it before he could make out what it was. There were no horses attached—that he saw in a glance—but the tugs cut short off, were fastened there. The snow had blown away from one side of the sleigh, while the other side was deeply imbedded. He leaped upon the runner; and hurriedly pulled the buffalo robes away; a fear came upon him such as he had never known before.

At last, it seemed to him so long, though it was hardly a moment—in that snowy moonshine he saw the pallid face of a woman lying motionless among her furs.

With a suppressed cry he lifted that beautiful form to his shoulder, and sat down on the cutter, bending his lips to the cold ones that could not respond to his caress. And yet she was not dead,—a faint breath just sighed across his cheek.

Was it thus he had thought to greet his promised wife? He could not think—he knew nothing but that he had found Alice—and his whole being rose to the resolve that he would save her—that neither snow nor ice nor cold should take her from him. She was his and he claimed her despite everything.

But he could not linger there; he must be moving on, though ever so slowly. He bore his burden to his own cutter, taking with him the furs that could not save her after that fearful sleep had begun. His horses walked on again—they needed no guiding—they could find their own way better than man could direct.

Anything but intense love would have despaired in that tempest of snow, with that pitiless wind freezing across the earth, raising no glow on the blue white face against his own.

He roughly chafed with snow her hands and face; but he soon saw that severer measures must be tried; that the lethargy was too deep. She dimly felt the fierce friction, for she moaned and seemed to shrink from it—a wordless request to be left alone.

Russell had forgotten the cold for himself, the snow swept by him unheeded. Again he lifted her in his arms and stepped out into the snow, letting her stand beside him, then trying to make her fight her way on, knowing that if she could once be roused she was saved.

At first she fell down helplessly, sank inanimately with no wish to stir. But in a moment his ceaseless efforts had some effect, and he could compel her to use her muscles slightly, though her head drooped in an unknowing stupor.

Russell felt that he had never suffered before. He thought the pains and sorrows of all his life were crowded into that one night. By slow degrees, almost hopelessly slow, consciousness and horrible suffering returned.

His face was pale and sick, as he knew the agonies she endured. But pain was the signal of life, and not now would he despair.

At last she looked at him with recognizing eyes, and when everything else had failed, love reached the fountain of crimson, and sent a wave of its red to her face.

Weak, suffering, she reclined upon his arm, unable to move or to speak. Could he keep the life he had saved, through a much longer journey?

When he left the city there were a few houses scattered by the roadside for two or three miles. The dim glimmer of their lights he had seen; but since then he had noticed nothing—it was a waste through which he was riding, with no lamp of hope held out to him. And the delicate girl but half resuscitated, he thought—oh, how many miles before safety?

A half hour passed, and through Russell's brave soul had already darted the first doubt. Human endurance could not last forever, and it was more than he could do to preserve the feeble life he had recalled. In another half hour ice and cold might conquer him. He would die with her; he could not live when that dear face was beneath the sod.

A quarter of a mile further on, and he saw through the storm a dark object by the roadside. It was a building of some kind, and could shelter them. He turned his horses' heads that way and plunged through the snow to the door. There was no door. It was a dismantled log hut, with its door gone, and its one little window broken out. But it was better than the fury without, and in another five minutes Alice was sheltered from the wind. With painful and patient fumbling he succeeded in fastening the buffalo robe in front of the doorway, thus forming an insufficient barrier. Then he drew from his pocket his cigar case and his matches, and lighting one of the latter, looked eagerly round the room in the flickering light. That glance told him that there was an immense fire place at one side of the hut, and a divine light streamed into his soul at the sight.

As his horses had dragged the cutter to the house, the runner had grated over the top rail of a fence, and the unseen post had nearly upset the cutter.

The white fingerd, fair faced Englishman worked with a power that was more like fury, and when at last a ruddy blaze flew up the broad chimney, tears of joy actually started from his eyes.

Exhausted, happy, he knelt at the feet of Alice, and hid his face in her hands. With that reviving warmth came a little of strength to her weary soul. She leaned forward, a smile upon her lips and in her eyes, and murmured—

"It was heaven itself who sent you here, Robert."

Two hours later a gray dawn was struggling through the clouds; a broad strip of blue encircled the west; the wind moaned in lower tones. The old hut was golden with the wood fire—it threw its radiance over the two horses that had been led in, and stood wild and grateful in a corner, their eyes staring at the fire.

Renovated, though weak, with a happiness beyond words, warm in heart, Alice Malcomb greeted her wedding day. She had told her story to Robert—the story of her desertion in the snow. As the storm had come on more furiously, her driver, whom she believed trustworthy, announced his intention of returning. She had discovered that he was in a semi-intoxicated state, but she refused to return, and he would not go a step further, and had cut the traces, and mounting one of the horses left her to her fate.

She did not know when she spoke that a mile back, within a few miles of the city he lay frozen to death, the eddying snow drifting over his body. He had found a fate which his mistress had escaped.

Backward, through a vista of happy years, looked Russell and his wife to that night of horror in Canada, when peril revealed to them the full depth of their devotion—the infinitude of their love.

THE LUMBER SEASON AT THE NORTH-WEST.—A St. Cloud (Minn.) paper states that the lumbermen on the Upper Mississippi have had an unusually successful season during the past Winter. They have cut a greater number of logs than during any previous season for several years past. In Michigan, too, the season has been a very active and successful one, and the amount of lumber cut in Muskegon County, which is the great lumber county of the State, will be larger than ever before. The lumber cut in this county in 1866 yielded $5,000,000.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Notice to Our Readers.—Any subscriber who removed on the first of April, should leave the number of his present residence, at our counting room, so that his paper may be left without interruption by the carrier.

Travel on the street railways was unusual brisk yesterday.

Mayor Drum on Saturday committed four persons to jail for drunkenness.

Council Meeting.—There will be a special meeting of Councils on to-day, at two o'clock P. M.

Chief Engineer Crow, of Allegheny, is ill. Capt. Joseph Bowers, of the Columbia, is acting in his place.

Notwithstanding the pleasant weather yesterday the churches, as a general rule, were rather slimly attended.

The Regular Quarterly Meeting of the Monongahela Presbytery will meet to-morrow at 10½ o'clock in the U. P. Church, Sixth street.

Drunken Men were quite numerous in the streets of both cities yesterday. This morning's levees of the Mayors will doubtless be well attended.

The Allegheny Park Commission have appointed Henry Hess and Robert Cornelius special policemen to guard the Park from injury by trespassers.

Anniversary.—The Catholic Churches yesterday celebrated, with much pomp, the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Pope Pius IXth as a priest.

Dedication.—A new Catholic Church at the Point was dedicated yesterday by Right Reverend Bishop Domenec. The Cathedral brass band was in attendance.

Passed Through.—Yesterday afternoon six companies of the Twelfth United States Regular Infantry passed through the Union Depot on their way to Montana.

The Annual Congaegation Meeting of the 2nd U. P. Church will take place this evening for the purpose of electing Trustees and transacting other business belonging to that church.

Vagrancy.—Mary Baxter was committed to jail for twenty days by Mayor Drum on Saturday. Mary had been arrested the evening previous, on Ohio street, being intoxicated, and acting in a disorderly manner, by insulting persons passing.

By Request, Mrs. Barclay will repeat her course of lectures, bearing directly upon those subjects with regard to which our ladies are least intelligent, this afternoon at four o'clock. The lecture will be free, at the Union Baptist Church, on Grant street, between Sixth and Seventh.

Saturday was the twenty-fourth anniversary of the great fire, which occurred in Pittsburgh in 1845. At noon twenty-four strokes were given on the Central alarm bell, in accordance with the custom among firemen of former years of ringing the bells at noon.

Sale of Real Estate.—On Saturday morning the large four-story building on the Corner of Penn and Tenth streets, 75 by 160 feet, formerly occupied by F. Sellers & Co., as a pork establishment, was sold by Mr. A. McIlwaine, auctioneer, for $100,000. Mr. Sellers was the purchaser.

Finally.—Charles St. Clair, the young man arrested by Chief of Police Bowden, of Allegheny, a few weeks ago, for robbing Knoebel's jewelry store, Smithfield street, had a final hearing before Mayor Drum on Saturday afternoon, which resulted in his commitment for trial in default of bail in the sum of $500.

Notice—I. O. of O. F.—The members of St. Clair Lodge, No. 362, are requested to meet in their Hall, in Temperanceville, at 2 o'clock P. M. this day, for the purpose of attending the funeral of Brother Thomas Evans. Sister Lodges are respectfully invited to attend.

THOS. RALPH, Secretary.

End of a Fight.—Martin Flaherty made information before Alderman Humbert, Saturday morning, against Andrew Hadley for assault and battery. The parties were engaged in a free fight the day previous, during which Flaherty seems to have been used pretty roughly. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Hadley.

Conscience Money.—Saturday morning an envelope containing one hundred dollars and the following note was received through the Postoffice at one of the leading trimming stores in this city: "Stolen from your counter day before Christmas, last year. Returned through the Catholic confessional by a penitent woman."

Scalded to Death.—Friday evening about five o'clock, the infant son of Mr. John O'Malley, residing at No. 120 Forbes street, died from the effects of scalding. The little boy, the day previous, had overturned a kettle of boiling water upon himself, and was so terribly scalded that notwithstanding all the exertions of medical skill, he expired as stated.

Justice.—Our item published on Saturday on unwholesome meat was calculated to do Mr. Dietrich, butcher, injustice. He was imposed upon in the case, and such a thing would happen the most honest and careful butchers. Mr. Dietrich strives to keep and sell only first-class and healthy meat, and we should be sorry should an impression to the contrary be derived from our article.

A Change.

Mr. G. F. Conklin, who, for two years past, has filled the box office as Treasurer at the Opera House, severed his connection with the establishment on Saturday. Mr. Conklin was an agreeable and accommodating officer and rendered general satisfaction to the many patrons of the establishment, as well as to the Manager. It is his intention, we learn, to engage in business for himself, and we cordially recommend him to the public. Mr. William Conklin, a brother of the retiring treasurer, will hereafter fill the box office at the Opera House.

Fire on Saturday.

Saturday morning about ten o'clock a quantity of coal tar, contained in a tank at the Empire Oil Works, took fire and was consumed. The loss was estimated at one hundred and fifty dollars, upon which there was no insurance. The refinery is owned by Messrs. Patterson, Niehans & Co., and located at the corner of Railroad and Thirty-second streets. An alarm sounded from box 67 brought the companies in fire district No. 3 to the scene, by which the fire was prevented from spreading to the other part of the works. The origin of the fire could not be ascertained.

An Unfriendly Greeting.

Eliza Nesbitt made information before Alderman McMasters, on Saturday, against Harriet Johnson for assault and battery. The parties reside on Fourth street, and it appears, though formerly friends, lately have been at variance, owing to some misunderstanding. Eliza states, Saturday she was proceeding along Fourth street to her residence with a basket filled with marketing, when Harriet, meeting, attacked her fiercely, snatching the basket and scattering the edibles in all directions, tearing off her bonnet and shawl, and finally pummelled her severely on the face and head, which was the cause of the exceedingly dark color of the eye which she exhibited at the Alderman's office. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the pugilistic Harriet.

Fire Marshal's Report.

The following is a recapitulation of the report of Fire Marshal G. W. Murphy for the month of March:

During the month there were thirty-one fires and alarms of fire in the county; fourteen were false, and at eight very little damage was sustained.

The gross loss was....................$35,787
Covered by insurance.................. 22,832
Amount uninsured...................... 12,955

The largest fire of the month occurred at the glass works of Messrs. Semple, Reynolds & Co., in Birmingham, at which property to the amount of $21,561 was destroyed, upon which $15,646 insurance was paid.

Important Action for Councils To-Day.

The City Councils meet to-day to take into consideration a plan for the paving, grading and improving of the principal avenues connecting the old city with the wards recently acquired by consolidation. The propositions are:

1. That the provisions in the consolidation act in regard to the opening, grading and paving of the main avenues, hereinafter mentioned, requiring the consent of a majority of the property owners, be repealed, and that said provisions be wholly repealed as to the grading and paving of all streets in the rural districts.

2. That the city be authorized to loan its credit to the amount of $1,000,000 for the grading and paving of the following main avenues, beginning where the present paving terminates:

First. Butler street to Negley's run.

Second. Greenburg turnpike to the city line.

Third. Liberty avenue to Center avenue.

Fourth. Center avenue and Frankstown road to Greensburg pike.

Fifth. Fifth avenue and Forbes street to Greensburg pike.

Sixth. Such avenue as may be opened from Oakland to the city line, between Fifth avenue and the Braddock's Field road.

Seventh. Braddock's Field road to the crossing of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad, beyond Glenwood.

3. That the expense of grading and paving said avenues be paid by assessing one-third of the cost upon the property abutting thereon, and the remaining two-thirds by a levy not exceeding five mills on the property of the old city, and not exceeding ten mills on the property of the rural districts. Provided, That the one-third assessment be due and payable in three equal instalments of four months each, with interest at seven per cent. from and after the completion of the grading and paving in front of each and every lot abutting on said avenues.

4. As soon as said avenues be completed and paid for, the five mill tax shall cease, and then the grading and paving of all other streets shall be paid by assessing one-third on the property abutting, and two-thirds by the levy of ten mills on the property of the rural districts.

5. The grading and paving of the said main avenues to be carried on equally, and at the same time.

The members from the new wards will vote solid for its adoption, and it remains to be seen what the delegates representing the wards from the old city will have to say on the subject at the meeting this afternoon. A lively time may be anticipated,

St. Agnes Church Fair.

The Fair being held at Miller's Hall at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Gist street, for the benefit of St. Agnes' Church, at Soho, has been well attended during the past week, and great excitement exists among the contestants for the various prizes. Among the articles to be voted for are a gold watch for the most amiable young lady, a splendid sewing machine to the most charitable lady, and a fine set of buggy harness to the most popular gentleman. The hall is beautifully decorated, and an excellent band is in attendance. The refreshment department is in competent hands, and nothing is left undone by the ladies in attendance to make a visit to the Fair an evening of pleasure. The Oakland cars pass the door every fifteen minutes. All are cordially invited to attend.

The voting on the different articles at the close of the Fair Saturday evening stood as follows:

Gold Watch for the most amiable young lady—Miss Maggie Appelbee, 233; Miss Whelan, 225; Miss Baker, 56; Miss Kate Quin, 50; Miss Ann O'Grady, 55; Miss McCloskey, 115; Miss Ann Rafferty, 58.

On the Silver Pitcher for the best natured man—James McCafferty, 25; John S. Kennedy, 30; Rody Sweeny, 15; Wm. Clinton, 25; George Green, 10; C. F. Good, 60.

On the Buggy and Harness for the most popular gentleman—George F. McClean, 65; Alex. King, 55; Alex. Chambers, 40; Dr. George W. Spencer, 120; William Carr, 25; C. C. Thomson, 40; A. J. Hagan, 30.

Brought to Terms.

Friday of last week Charles H. Angers, a boy about thirteen years of age, went into a clothing store on St. Clair street and purchased a pair of pants for four dollars, with the understanding that he should return them and get them exchanged if they did not fit him. The pants were taken home, and when the boy tried them on, found them big enough for his father, or "any other man." Saturday he brought them back to have them exchanged and called upon James Samuels, the clerk from whom he had purchased them, and Samuels offered him another pair about the same size, but of an inferior quality. The boy refused to take them, when Samuels ordered him to leave the store and threatened to kick him out, if he did not go. The boy left and went to Alderman Donaldson's office, where an information was made against Samuels for cheating by fraud. He was arrested and taken to the Alderman's office, and after a hearing he was required to give bail for his appearance at court. Having discovered that he was on the wrong side of the question, and that he might probably get himself into trouble, he resolved to settle the matter and sent for the boy who was taken to the store by the officer who had arrested Samuels, when the pants were exchanged satisfactorily and the case withdrawn.

The Lecture To-night.

We trust that none of our readers will forget that Mr. Henry Vincent, the eminent English orator, scholar and friend of Human Progress, will lecture to-night at the Academy of Music by invitation of a number of our most prominent citizens. The subject selected, Oliver Cromwell, should insure a great intellectual treat for all who attend. Although the arrangements for the lecture have been kindly taken charge of by the Mercantile Library Lecture Committee, that Association's course expired with Mr. Tilton's lecture, and hence, course tickets are no longer good for admittance, so that those wishing to be present to-night should secure their tickets at the Library rooms, or at the door. The price to all parts of the house is fifty cents; no reserved seats.

Slight Fire.

Saturday evening, about seven o'clock an alarm was sounded from box 3, Allegheny Fire Alarm, located at the corner of Beaver avenue and Locust street, Sixth ward. The alarm was occasioned by the discovery of a slight fire in a frame building in the vicinity, occupied by a German as a dwelling house and stable. During the absence of the occupant a hot coal from the stove rolled out upon the floor and set fire to it. It was quickly discovered, however, and extinguished before any material damage had been done. The engines were out but their services were not required.

A Clue at Last.

For some time past, as our readers are well aware, the firemen of Allegheny have been greatly annoyed and harrassed by false alarms of fires. Sometimes these alarms would be sounded three or four times in a night, each alarm apparently coming from a different section of the city. The manner and times of the alarms satisfied all in connection with the Fire Department that some persons well acquainted with the workings of the telegraph, were engaged in the reprehensible practice, and a watch was accordingly placed upon every available point. For a time the most careful watching failed to detect the depredators, the alarms continuing as frequent as before. Saturday night, or yesterday morning rather, at length furnished a clue to the matter and witnessed the arrest of several parties for the offense.

Shortly before one o'clock yesterday morning, as Lieutenant Frank Campbell, with officers Cornelius and Lafferty, was proceeding along Washington street, three men were noticed in the vicinity of Box 51, corner of Washington and North streets, acting in a suspicious manner. The officers at once suspecting their object kept a watch upon their movements until they noticed one of the men unlock the box and pull the slide, thus giving an alarm. The officers immediately stepped forward but were peceived by the men who started off. After a brisk run of several squares, they succeeded in arresting them in a yard where they had taken refuge. During the flight Lieutenant Campbell heard the rattling of a key falling upon the pavement as it was dropped by one of the men. This key was recovered and discovered subsequently to be an exact fit to the lock on the box from which the alarm had been given. The prisoners were taken to the lock up where two of them proved to be well known firemen, John Hunter and Jas. Brown. The third party was Edward Williams, a resident of Birmingham. They at first denied everything in connection with the alarm, but the evidence was too positive against them, and they finally made an acknowledgement to the offence, but stoutly denied having been previously engaged in the practice. At the hearing before the Mayor the circumstances as above stated were developed, and the parties fined $50 each, the highest penalty of the law. Hunter secured the amount and was released. The others in default were committed to jail. Hunter is one of the most widely known and most experienced firemen in the city, being at present, we are informed, Captain of one of the Companies.

The arrest of these parties is more important from the fact that at the hearing information was revealed, which may lead to the detection of others implicated in the practice at other times. It is quite likely more arrests will be made and the matter will, a clue having thus been furnished, be thoroughly sifted.

[Communication.]

Public Meeting in the Twenty-First Ward.

At a large and spirited meeting assembled at the McCosh school house, in the twenty-first ward, on Thursday evening, April 9th, and over which Hon. Saml. Chadwick was called to preside, the extensive paving and grading scheme now before the Councils was discussed, and in several spirited speeches the question was handled without gloves, and especially that portion which proposes the repeal of "the majority in interest" relative to the opening, grading and paving, and to substitute therefor a "majority on petition. The meeting, after passing the following, adjourned to meet at the wigwam at an early day.

WHEREAS, The people of the rural wards are but partially informed as to the provisions of a bill now being framed by our City Councils, involving the expenditure of perhaps millions of dollars, for the purpose of paving and grading streets in localities in which many of us but seldom travel, and for which we are to be heavily taxed, therefore,

Resolved, That we respectfully request our Select and Common Councilmen from this ward, in special Council assembled, to vote to hold this matter in abeyance until we have an opportunity to know the precise nature and terms of the law asked for of our Legislature.

On motion, the officers were instructed to have the above printed in some of our daily papers.

SAMUEL CHADWICK, Prest.
JOHN ROSS, Sec'y.

Daring Robbery.

An extensive and daring robbery was perpetrated yesterday morning, at the house of Mr. Porter R. Friend, on Fourth street. The house it appears is undergoing repairs, and the lower part of it was only temporarily closed up. About three o'clock in the morning Mrs. Friend heard some one in the room in which she and her husband were sleeping, but as one of her sons was unwell and had been up during the night, and supposing it was him she heard, she paid no attention to the matter, but on getting up in the morning, she discovered that the visitor she heard was quite a different person from the one she supposed it was. Upon retiring the evening previous, two gold watches and a gold chain, a pocket-book containing two hundred and eighty dollars, and several pieces of jewelry, among which was a breastpin marked "F" on the back, the whole valued at near one thousand dollars, were left in the bureau drawer, all of which were taken by the thief. The police were notified of the affair early yesterday morning, but as yet have obtained no clue to the robbery.

Obituary.

It is with no uncommon pain and sorrow that we announce this morning the death of Mr. Frank A. McDevitt, son of John McDevitt, Esq., which occurred in Chicago on Friday last, after a brief illness. Mr. McDevitt was a young man of many noble traits of character, a warm and confiding friend, a generous and genial companion, a kind-hearted and charitable Christian whose sudden taking away will cause much sorrow in this, his native city, and in Chicago, his temporary home. His body reached the Union Depot yesterday and was conveyed to the residence of his heart-stricken parents at Oakland, from whence the funeral will take place.

Attorney for the Oil Regions.

Any of our friends having business to transact in the Pennsylvania oil regions of a legal nature, are referred to W. W. Mason, Esq., whose office is at Tionesta. Mr. Mason's long residence in the petroleum districts, and his thorough understanding of all the details attending leasing, selling, contracting and other departments of production and development, renders him a very available and desirable agent to attend to business in that section. From long acquaintance we can safely recommend him to our readers as a capable, enterprising, efficient and honorable lawyer, worthy the fullest measure of confidence.

Robbed of $568.50.

Anthony Snyder, a glass blower, came to the Mayor's office yesterday morning and stated that he had been robbed Saturday night of $568.50. He stated that he and James Johnson had been at Stups' saloon, on Wylie street, in the early part of the evening drinking, and about ten o'clock they left and started to go home. Whilst passing out Fifth avenue, they met Wilson, a saloon keeper, at the corner of the avenue and Lippincott's lane. Wilson, it appears, was acquainted with Johnson, and asked him to go up to his house, which is on Lippincott's lane, a short distance from Fifth avenue, and got a drink and a lunch before going home, and insisted upon Snyder going also. They finally consented, and went with him. After they had taken a drink or two and eaten a lunch, while Wilson and Johnson were talking Snyder went to sleep, and when he awoke, which he says was about half an hour after he fell asleep, he discovered he had been robbed, and so informed Wilson. Mrs. Wilson who was in the saloon at the time fainted, but finally recovered and after Wilson locked the doors of the saloon she ran out and called a policeman.

Two officers answered the call and arrested Wilson and Johnson and brought them to the lock up, where they still remain. After Snyder made information yesterday morning, a search warrant was issued and the premises searched, but no money was found. Wilson and Johnson were also searched when brought to the lock up but none of the stolen money was found on the person of either of them.

Our Daily Bread.

"Give us good bread and there shall be no bloodshed, no wars, no crimes, no starvations." So wrote a great political economist whose faith in the powers of the staff of life was great and abiding. But he called not for the poisonous compound sold now a days for bread. He wanted good bread and good bread alone. Had he lived in our day he should have attributed all the fearful looseness of society to the lack of good bread, but would have agreed with us, that could the people all be supplied with Ward's big and good loaves which are so rapidly driving all others out of the market, and out of public estimation, there would be better health physically and morally in the community. Mr. Ward is a conscientious dealer, one who frowns upon an unhealthful adulteration in bread as a crime against society and who is content on popularizing his loaves, rather than extorting large profits from his patrons. He uses the finest quality of flour, adopts no drugs to obtain light appearance, or to save labor in the kneading, makes good, big, full weight loaves, and sells at less prices than those of any other dealer in either city. His bakery, a model of neatness, cleanliness and order is at No. 40 Palo Alto street, Allegheny, and his wagons are constantly on the streets in both cities, delivering daily bread to patrons. Orders are supplied on the shortest possible notice. In conclusion we urge our readers to try Ward's big loaves, and our word for it they will never buy any other.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—A large and appreciative audience attended the Opera House Saturday evening, on which occasion Mr. Doud took a benefit. The entertainment was an unusually interesting one. Mr. Doud possesses talent of a very high order, and during his short stay in this city has become a universal favorite. We regret to learn that his connection with the Opera House as "leading man" will terminate shortly, as it will be a difficult matter for the manager to obtain a man for the position who will render such general satisfaction.

This evening Miss Mary Gladstane will commence an engagement of one week, on which occasion she will appear in the role of Julia in the "Hunchback."

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—Mr. Williams, manager of the Pittsburgh Theatre, announces an engagement with the celebrated commedian, Mr. Jas. H. Taylor, and Mr. J. W. McAndrews, the excellent delineator of negro character. Mr. Taylor is said to be the greatest characteristic vocalist of the age, and McAndrews sustains an equally high reputation in his line of business. With so great an addition to the already attractive company at the Old Theatre, the entertainments at that establishment this week will be unusually enjoyable.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The lecture at the Academy of Music this evening by Mr. Henry Vincent, will doubtless be one of the most interesting of the season. Subject: "Oliver Cromwell."

MASONIC HALL.—The grand concert by the Allegheny Quartette Club, which takes place at Masonic Hall Thursday evening, promises to be a most excellent musical entertainment.

The Indian Question Settled.

Mayor Drum, of Allegheny, and his Cabinet, had the Indian question up for consideration yesterday. Poor Lo came from the Pine regions, at the headwaters of the Allegheny river, a few days since. Yesterday morning he imbibed an overdose of "fire-water," and as a consequence, while riding up Federal street in one of the Manchester Passenger Railway cars, he became demonstrative to an alarming extent, which caused his lodgment in the lock-up. In the evening, when somewhat sobered, he was released upon payment of the usual fine.

The Elegant Pulpit.

Mr. Wallace wishes us to state that the elegant pulpit made by him for the church of the United Brethren, at Johnstown, is all marble. Mr. Wallace informs us that such fine work cannot be done on slate. He has nearly abandoned the use of slate for mantels, as time and experience have taught him that marble is much better, and that he can sell marbleized marble mantels, pulpits, and furniture slabs, to imitate any and all the finer varieties of marble in the world, at about the same price as slate. The beautiful pulpit will remain in his window, at 319 Liberty street, a few days longer, where citizens are invited to call and see it, and also to examine his fine variety of marble, marbleized marble and slate mantels, in his show room on second floor. Marbleized marble cannot be stained by oils, acids or coal smoke. Office and ware rooms, 319 and 321 Liberty street.

The Allegheny Fire Alarm.

Mr. Thomas Rogers, of the firm of Gamewell, Kennard & Co., builders of the Allegheny Fire Alarm Telegraph, arrived in the city on Saturday, and will commence the work of overhauling the line to-day. The firm state they will put the line in working order, and warrant it to work properly for one year, provided a competent person is placed in charge of it. The work of repairing will probably be finished in a few days, and will be thorough and complete.
